Bomb Found At Seal Beach City Hall

INCENDIARY PACKAGE IS DISCOVERED BY JANITOR

Matches So Arranged As to Set Fire to Fuse and Cause Blast

USE PAPER TO HIDE EXPLOSIVE MATERIAL

Believe Death Bundle Taken From Prisoner Several Years Ago, Lost

PUBLIC OFFICIALS of Seal Beach have been, for several years without their knowledge, precariously seated beneath a figurative "sword of Damocles," or, more literally, over a potential volcano, it was discovered today when an infernal machine was unearthed by a janitor in an unused closet at the city hall.

Shivers of excitement and relief ran up and down the spines of officialdom when the "bomb" was found tucked away amid cobwebby records and office supplies, and it was realized that at any moment during recent months a stumbling block might have blown the entire building and its human contents into eternity.

Gingerly, the cylindrical box was brought out into the light where an inspection proved it to be filled with saltpetre and a handful of match heads.

In the opinion of City Marshal Jack Arnold, the bomb was incendiary rather than of the explosive type, but very dangerous in either case.

According to Arnold, it had evidently been taken from some prisoner during the last three years, stored away in the closet back of police headquarters and forgotten.

KING GEORGE ON WAY TO RECOVERY

LONDON, March 11.—King George, recovering from an attack of bronchitis, is progressing "splendidly," Sir Wilson Reese, throat specialist, said after visiting Buckingham palace today.

Doctors have forbidden the king to leave the palace until the weather is warmer.

Present plans call for the king to leave London for his Mediterranean cruise next Tuesday.

Woman Lawyer Is Successful With Murder Defense

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Dena Jacobson, 23, bobbed-hair attorney, received the congratulations of her friends today for the successful handling of her first murder case.

Miss Jacobson saved her client, Mike Miskich from the gallows. Mike killed Joe Pecar during a fishermen's brawl, and the state demanded that he hang.

The girl attorney convinced a jury there were mitigating circumstances connected with the killing, and a verdict of second degree murder was returned. Miskich should have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

"This is not murder," she told the jury in her final argument. "It is merely a death. He struck in self-defense when attacked by a bigger man. He did not want to kill."

MODERNIZATION, SPEED AND ECONOMY ARE CHIEF AIMS OF POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, March 11.—With the handicap of the new postal bill and increased demands for faster, better service, Postmaster General Harry S. New is doubling his efforts in the new administration to attain the triple goal of economy, speed and modernization in the mails.

The postal bill, increasing the salaries of 200,000 clerks and carriers by an aggregate of $68,000,000 a year starting on January 1 last, and raising revenue by about $60,000,000 a year, starting April 15, eliminates the chance for operating the service at a profit this year.

In addition to the $8,000,000 to

Tramp Steamer In Distress Off Puget Sound

SEATTLE, Wash., March 11.—The Japanese tramp freighter Hokuyo Maru is drifting off Tatoosh island with her rudder and radio out of commission, the harbor radio station was notified by Tatoosh station today.

The United States coast guard cutter Snohomish and the Canadian government cutter Thiepval have gone to her rescue.

The Hokuyo is inbound from the Orient to Vancouver to load wheat.

SOLON GIVES TESTIMONY IN LEASE TRIAL

TORONTO, Ont., March 11.—H. S. Osler and other officers of the Continental Trading company must answer questions asked them before an examining commission in connection with the Teapot Dome oil leasing trial in the Cheyenne, Wyo., federal court, the appeals court ruled here today.

LEASE APPLICATIONS DISCUSSED IN COURT

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 11.—John B. Kendrick, U. S. senator from Wyoming, was the first witness called at today's session of the government's suit to break the lease of the Mammoth Oil company on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

Kendrick testified he received a telegram from Leslie Miller of Cheyenne on April 7, 1922, asking Kendrick to inquire of former secretary of the interior Albert B. Fall if the department of the interior would consider application for a lease on a part of Teapot Dome.

Kendrick said he brought the matter to the department's attention again asking him to again inquire of the interior department about considering an application for a lease on the present reserve.

Kendrick was questioned by Atlee Pomerene, former United States senator from Ohio. Kendrick said he did not know of Miller's telegram and said that a letter from H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines, on April 10, stated that no definite contracts had been made in connection with naval oil reserves No. 1 and 2 in California and No. 3 in Wyoming.

Telegram From Brooks

On April 18 Kendrick said he received a telegram from former Governor B. B. Brooks of Wyoming on behalf of the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas Producers' association of Casper, urging the Wyoming delegation to take action preventing consummation of the Teapot Dome lease.

In connection with these telegrams and letters, Kendrick said he introduced a resolution asking the interior and navy departments for more information as to leasing of naval oil reserves and whether any opportunity was given for public bidding of the contracts.

A deposition by William Erson of Long Beach, Cal., and Kendrick's former secretary, stated that he was unable to see Secretary Fall when he took Miller's telegram to the department of the interior but that he was assured that no lease had been made on Teapot Dome and that Fall would be glad to consider the request of Senator Kendrick's constituents.

The deposition of Congressman Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming stated that Mondell had called on E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of the interior, in April, 1922, and asked Finney to forward to Fall at Three Rivers, N. M., a telegram from Representative Mondell's constituents.

ROB MAN OF LIFE SAVINGS

Arrest Four Men Caught Unloading $50,000 Worth Of Booze In L. A. Garage

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Southern California's largest rum-distributing ring was believed broken up today with the arrest of four alleged bootleggers in the act of unloading $50,000 worth of bonded liquors in a local garage.

Tony Canaris, alleged bootleg king, and three henchmen were taken into custody by a combined squad of police and federal dry agents. Liquors seized included 600 cases of choice blends, and 90 cans of grain alcohol.

The lot was said to be part of the cargo of the rum-running ship Lily, which has plied between Vancouver and Southern California points the last two years.

Dry officers said it was the biggest "haul" in Southern California in two years.

Forest Week Is Proclaimed By President

WASHINGTON, March 11.—President Coolidge today proclaimed the week of April 27 to May 3 to be American Forest week and urged the country to observe the occasion by taking a renewed interest in forest rehabilitation.

Preservation of the nation's forests is a policy which President Coolidge regards as one of the most important duties of his administration can uphold. In his proclamation today he termed forest protection a "sacred responsibility to unborn generations."

Mr. Coolidge does not regard the forest week he proclaimed as a mere gesture to be observed principally by school children singing Arbor Day songs. He feels a stimulation of the rapidly dwindling forests is one of the most serious needs of the time.

HEAVY SNOWS ASSURE AMPLE WATER SUPPLY

Plenty of water for irrigation and for generation of electricity is assured by one of the heaviest snow storms in years which has been falling on Southern California mountains, according to reports today from Los Angeles.

Heavy snows in Big Bear lake have brought down wires and telephone communication has been interrupted.

At Kaiser pass, where the Southern California Edison company has been doing vast development work, 39 inches of snow was reported today, bringing the total snowfall this season for that place up to 235 inches.

Snow has been falling for many days at other mountain points. According to statements of local representatives of the Edison company, the heavy fall of snow in the vicinity of Huntington and Florence lakes insures plenty of water for generation of electricity and is a guarantee against drought of the power shortage prevalent last summer.

Letter Writing Rabbi Is Held For Prosecution

NEW YORK, March 11.—Charged with writing annoying letters to President and Mrs. Coolidge and members of the government, Rabbi E. B. M. Brown, 72 year old writer and lecturer, was arraigned in Yorkville court today. The case was continued until Monday.

It was alleged Rabbi Brown wrote to Frank W. Stearns three months ago demanding $25,000 "for helping to elect Coolidge president."

The court, Rabbi Brown insisted, had no right to interfere with him so long as he was writing only to his personal friends.

PRESIDENT DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF CASE

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Arrest of Rabbi E. B. M. Brown in New York today was on the initiative of the secret service in New York and the president had no idea that a warrant would be issued in the case, it was learned at the White House this afternoon. Brown had written many letters to the White House.

WOULD TAX GAMBLERS

LONDON, March 11.—Snits has been started in the English courts to compel professional coin matchers and race horse bettors to pay income taxes.

TWO BANDITS BEAT VICTIM UNCONSCIOUS

Highwaymen In Auto Get $1000 From Employee of Santa Ana Barber Shop

POLICE are searching for two youthful Mexicans, who last night at 9:30 o'clock, waylaid Chris Lambos, employed at a barber shop, on East Fourth street, and, after beating him to unconsciousness, robbed him of his life savings amounting to more than $1000 in cash.

The holdup was near the intersection of Third and Garvey streets, and, although Lambos fought his assailants and screamed for help, no one in the neighborhood was aroused, he told police.

Lambos is in hospital.

Today, he lies in the Orange County hospital, his head badly swollen from effects of the blows. The money carried by Lambos was in six pocketbooks, wrapped in a handkerchief, and was in silver and bills, the latter ranging in denomination from $1 to $20.

Sixteen dollars in cash and several checks in the man's pocket were not taken, leading police to believe that the holdup man knew that Lambos carried all his savings with him all times, and that they were carried in a package.

Lambos was driving his car home from the barber shop when he was overtaken by the two men who were in a small touring car. An obstruction in the street caused Lambos to stop his car and when he did so, a gun was held in his face, and the bandits threatened his life.

Threaten to Shoot Him

"We are after the money you carry with you all the time, and I'll show you full of holes if you don't hand it over," one of the men said.

Lambos fought and also attempted to slide the package to the floor of the car. Then he was struck over the head several times, and he regained consciousness only a few minutes later. The bandits were several minutes in the direction of the police station, calling for help and was assisted by two passers-by, who carried him to the station.

More than 100 warships are being given liberty while the fleet is here, over the week-end.

Next Monday a number of the battleships and supply train vessels will steam for San Pedro for maneuvers there, to be joined later by the mosquito fleet of destroyers.

OPIMUM HIDDEN ON STEAMSHIP FOUND

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—A cache of opium worth $25,000 was found by customs inspectors concealed in the roof of a passenger aboard the Pacific Mail liner President Cleveland when she docked here yesterday. The contraband is believed to have been put on the vessel at Hongkong. No arrests were made.

SUPERVISORS FAVOR PLANS FOR NEW DIRECT HIGHWAY, SANTA ANA TO LOS ANGELES

APPROVAL OF PLANS presented by the Century Boulevard association, for construction of a broad paved highway to provide a direct route between Los Angeles and Santa Ana, was granted late yesterday by the county supervisors when a delegation appeared to urge the matter.

County Surveyor W. K. Hillyard was ordered by the board to make a survey of the proposed route through Orange county, closely following the Pacific Electric railway.

Members of the board yesterday expressed their willingness to approve county financial support, as quickly as possible, probably spreading the appropriations over a period of years. Los Angeles county members of the visiting delegation were assured, however, that this county would probably have its portion of the 100-foot boulevard completed by the time its shanty.

In relation to the suggestion by the boulevard association that the highway should be located about 500 feet away from the railway, members of the board expressed the view that such an arrangement in this county might not be practical, because of cutting too deep into orange groves bordering the highway.

Say King Tut Still Best Among Tombs

LONDON, March 11.—Old King Tut still holds choice position in the archaeological spotlight, in the opinion of British scientists who believe the newly discovered sarcophagus at Giza contains the mummy of an ancient Egyptian princess and not that of Seneferu, founder of the 18th dynasty, or Cheops dynasty monarch, or

King Tut, who is in the kindergarten class compared with either of those venerable rulers, seemed slated for a bench warming position in the annals of royal history. Scientists consulted today, however, are of the opinion that Seneferu's mummy probably is in the vicinity of Dahshur, while Cheops mummy probably is located in a pyramid 15 miles or so to the north.

Some British scientists, however, are hopeful that the tomb of Seneferu has been discovered.

BATTLE FLEET WILL ANCHOR AT SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, March 11.—The combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets of the United States navy got under way this morning for San Diego from a point off the Lower California coast where battle maneuvers have been under way.

More than 100 warships are in the fleet which is scattered for 100 miles along the coast and far out to sea.

The entire assemblage, comprising the greatest war armada ever seen in the Pacific, is due here late tomorrow.

The great battleships of the dreadnaught class, headed by the U. S. S. Seattle, flagship of Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander in chief, will anchor off Coronado, the smaller vessels steam-bay into port.

More than 100 warships are being given liberty while the fleet is here, over the week-end.

Next Monday a number of the battleships and supply train vessels will steam for San Pedro for maneuvers there, to be joined later by the mosquito fleet of destroyers.

The first vessels of the fleet are due at noon and it will be long after dark before the larger ships have arrived and dropped anchor. Extensive plans for entertainment of the officers and men are under way, with dances under auspices of the state societies, athletic events and "open house" in San Diego homes as the chief items.

Begin Probe of Indian Deaths; Evidence Secret

PAWHUSKA, Okla., March 11.—Secrecy guarded developments expected in the court of inquiry opened here today by state and federal officials into the deaths by violence of five wealthy Osage Indians during the past three years.

Rumors that the murders had been committed to obtain the estates of the Indians, all of whom were Osages and made rich by the development of oil lands, were unverified.

The White House was stunned when the news of the Senate vote was received. It is the sixth time in history that a cabinet nomination has failed of confirmation and Mr. Coolidge is the fourth President to suffer such a defeat.

Inasmuch as Warren himself wishes to drop the fight, no further steps toward his ultimate confirmation are expected. It is related that Warren told the president when he was first selected that he did not want the job. He knew there would be a fight because of his connection with sugar interests and accepted the nomination only upon the president's insistence.

On account of the unexpected nature of the Warren rejection, President Coolidge has not yet had time to cast about for a substitute choice for the post of attorney general. However, when to the head of the department of justice, he seriously considered Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts supreme court; James M. ### Dawes Arrives In Senate Too Late to Prevent Deadlocked Vote

DETROIT, Mich., March 11.—Charles B. Warren, who was rejected by the senate yesterday as attorney general, left today for a conference with President Coolidge at Washington.

Warren said that at the present time he did not have sufficient knowledge of the situation in Washington to enable him to make any comment. He was leaving, he said, at the President's request and would not know what his future action would be until after the conference.

SAY PRESIDENT WILL SUBMIT NEW NOMINEE

WASHINGTON, March 11.—President Coolidge will submit a new nomination for attorney general to the senate before it adjourns, today after a conference with the President at the White House. Furthermore, in the opinion of Senator Cummins, Iowa, it will be approved by the senate at this extra session. As for the likelihood of the President fulfilling the name of Charles B. Warren, who was refused confirmation in a dramatic session of the senate late yesterday, Cummins said:

"It would be hopeless with the present lineup in the senate. I don't know of any who might be expected now to change their vote of yesterday."

The senators, at the White House conference, it was learned, informed the President that Warren's nomination, if resubmitted, could not be confirmed and they left with the impression that Mr. Coolidge is convinced he must seek another man. There was no hint either at the White House or senate as to whom he would select.

Complete Reversal

The action was a complete reversal of all that had been expected and even now Republican leaders feel that they have a majority in the full strength was present—including Vice President Charles G. Dawes, whose absence from the chamber at the critical voting moment was chiefly responsible for the defeat.

Dawes was resting at his hotel apartment when frantic word came to him from the capitol that the senate was tied 45 to 40 over confirmation of the Warren nomination and for him to take a taxi and hurry to the senate chamber. He did. His secretary met him at the door. A special elevator was waiting for him. He was ushered in and still breathing hard from his run when he mounted the rostrum.

But just as he came in, Senator Overman, North Carolina Democrat, in response to earnest pleadings of Senator Walsh, Montana Democrat, who led the fight against Warren, agreed to change his vote.

Just a second late

Dawes' entry came just a second too late. Overman, by his switch, prevented reconsideration of the vote by which the nomination was defeated.

The White House was stunned when the news of the Senate vote was received. It is the sixth time in history that a cabinet nomination has failed of confirmation and Mr. Coolidge is the fourth President to suffer such a defeat.

Inasmuch as Warren himself wishes to drop the fight, no further steps toward his ultimate confirmation are expected. ## LOG TELLS OF 12-DAY DRIFT IN OPEN BOAT

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, March 11.—Thrilling details of their 12 days adrift in the Atlantic in an open boat is told in an impromptu log kept by three Miami, Fla., men, brought to Port Arthur today by Captain N. Mattison, skipper of the Texas company tanker Lighthouse, their rescuer.

The three men were picked up 60 miles off Charleston light after they had drifted 440 miles in a launch with a disabled engine. They were carried to Norfolk, Va., by the tanker, which then proceeded to Port Arthur, its home port.

The trio rescued were Thomas Sweeten, C. B. Dambly and Frank Russell.

Dozens of sharks followed their launch as it drifted. Fourteen ships passed without noticing them. The log relates how the men fished when their supply of food was exhausted, but the first fish they hooked was bitten in two by sharks, leaving the hungry men only the head, which they ate avidly.

"It was more like roast turkey than anything we ever had," the men wrote in the log.

Finally a shark took fish, hook and line. This left the cast-aways without food source and for four days they starved until their little vessel was spied by the Lighthouse.

The log was presented to Captain Mattison by Dambly as a mark of gratitude from the trio for their rescue.

CLAIM X-WORD PUZZLES WANE IN POPULARITY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Lure of spring, the seasonal call of the outdoors or whatever it may be, is killing the cross word puzzle craze.

Just as surely as the "knee dress" replaced the hoop skirt and a smooth cheek the burnside, the little squared game is losing its popularity, at least in San Francisco.

"We seldom have any cross word puzzle fans asking us questions anymore," Miss Eleanor Sturges of the city library, said today. "A few weeks back they came by the hundreds."

Miss Sturges' comment was upheld by street railway employees.

"Used to be I had to shake 'em to get 'em out of my car," one conductor said. "Some of my regular passengers would ride right by their stops, with their heads buried in cross word puzzles. Now it's only an occasional person who is working on one and it's generally just to kill time."

Paul Elder, bookstore proprietor, was not so sure that the fad is dying. He did admit there is a diminished demand for dictionaries and books of synonyms.

"Perhaps, though, they're just getting adept at solving them," Elder commented.

NOTED AUTHOR WILL TALK AT LENT SERVICE

The Rev. Charles F. Aked, D.D., L.L.D., regarded as one of the outstanding preachers of today, will speak at the First Congregational church here Thursday evening, it was disclosed today by the church.

The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the local church, in connection with announcement that a series of Thursday evening Lenten addresses would be initiated with the meeting of tomorrow evening.

The topic of his address will be "The Appeal of the Heroic." The Rev. Mr. Aked is an author and lecturer of note, as well as a preacher, and his appearance will be anticipated with keen pleasure by a great many Santa Ana residents.

"Rev. Mr. Aked was brought to this country from Birmingham, England, by the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church of New York—popularly known as the Rockefeller church," the Rev. Mr. Schrock said. "He was not entirely happy in that atmosphere and resigned to accept the pastorate of the First Congregational church at San Francisco. Here he did a notable work. He led in the rebuilding of the organization and the church building after the earthquake disaster. He resigned the San Francisco pastorate to join the party aboard the ill-fated Ford peace ship. Later on he became the pastor of the First Congregational church of Kansas City. At the first of this year he became associated with Doctor Frank Dyer in the new Wilshire Congregational church, Los Angeles."

BOARD FAVORS PRINTING SHOP ASSISTANT TO FARM ADVISOR

Addition of an assistant farm advisor to the Orange county farm bureau staff appeared today as an assurance for next year, the board of supervisors having, late yesterday, recorded their approval of such a move.

The board adopted a resolution "indicating favor" for a provision in next year's budget, for employment of an assistant farm advisor at a salary not to exceed $1500 per annum. This resolution was regarded as tantamount to a final decision.

Action was taken at the instance of a farm bureau committee, including Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg, President J. A. Smiley, of the county farm bureau, and Dr. Scofield, of Buena Park.

The committee presented proof of necessity, including statements that the Orange county farm bureau is the largest in the state, and is being called upon for steadily increasing services to the agricultural interests of the county.

Plans for enlarging the vocational training department of the Santa Ana high school by adding new equipment and employing additional teachers, were discussed yesterday at the regular board meeting. Suggestions were made that printing be added to the activities of the vocation department, in which connection the trustees discussed the probable cost of installing linotype machines, a press and other equipment.

It was brought out that all of the leading high schools in Southern California have added this activity to their vocational courses and that the results have been gratifying from an economical as well as educational viewpoint.

Many high school graduates, finishing the printing course at such high schools, have upon graduation stepping into well paying jobs with newspapers and large printing establishments, it was pointed out.

Superintendent J. A. Cranston spoke in favor of the project, and Burgess, Rev. W. E. Roberts, Rev. W. H. McPeak, S. H. Finley, A. J. McFadden, J. A. McDill and R. C. Smedley. Others are planning to join the delegation who are yet to be heard from.

Miss Nancy Elder, who has just come to Santa Ana to serve as executive secretary for the women's work being carried on at the Y. M. C. A., will be welcomed by a group of the leaders in this work tomorrow evening, at a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. Miss Elder has urged that it be given serious consideration as soon as funds are available. Dr. Roy S. Horton supported the proposition, stating that inasmuch as a large number of the graduates will be called upon to support themselves after leaving school, there should be better facilities for vocational training.

The Well-Dressed Man

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

THE "SPORT-BACK" IS BACK

Full many a truth is spoken unwittingly, as, consider the card in the delicatessen dealer's shop that his cheese was unapproachable. It was, similarly, you often hear that the pleated-and-belted sporting jacket is out, and this is strictly so. You meet it out upon the most exclusive golf links. Americans, home from Europe, report that at the recreation resorts of Europe, where the best-turned men congregate, the pleated or belted jacket is the reigning favorite. All of which is contrary to the popular notion that this style is as dead as Julius Caesar. It did sustain a partial eclipse, but the sport-back is back, as it well deserves to be.

A simple sense of the fitness of things dictates that a man's field jacket and his lounge jacket should be wholly dissimilar in cut. The one partakes of the formality of town. The other belongs to far stretches and open spaces, where, in the well-known words of a witty writer, "no men and women are Governors". Sport and street should never meet. If the smart sporting jacket were to be kept pleated and belted, and a pair of "plus-four" knickers and call it a golf suit. That would be thrifty, but it wouldn't be style.

Aside from this, one's field jacket needs the give-and-take of expanding and contracting pleats or bellows to permit unhindered arm-swing and shoulder-play in all games and pastimes. Doubtless, such a consideration, even more than mere fashion, has brought back the sport-back. It is comfortable. It is practical. It is appropriate. It is picturesque. This combination of essential features is accountable for the revived vogue.

Illustrated here is the jacket of the type, for sports of all sorts, that has returned to favor. It has three buttons. The stitched-down half belt in the back shows small pleats above or below. There is a deep center vent. The three patch pockets—one breast and two side—carry flaps. The jacket is one-eighty, quite correct and some men will go on preferring them. It is an affair of what you like best and look best in, rather than of hard-and-fast style.

ELECT GORDON AS NEW RULER OF S. A. ELKS

W. R. Gordon, leading knight of Santa Ana lodge No. 734, B. P. O. E., was elected exalted ruler of the organization at last night's annual election session held in the clubhouse. V. A. Rossiter is the retiring exalted ruler.

Others elected were: Leading knight, J. L. McFadden; lecturer, knight, S. M. Reinhaus; secretary, E. R. Majors; treasurer, C. L. Sleeper; tile, F. J. Adams; trustee for three years, G. C. Ross; esquire, E. R. Abbey; inner guard, Sam Jernigan; chaplain, W. L. H. Benton.

Rossiter was elected delegate to the grand lodge meeting at Portland in July. J. Fred Parsons was named alternate delegate.

H. A. Gardner and J. Fred Parsons are the hold over trustees. Installation of the officers will take place April 14. A dinner will precede the ceremonies.

Wasser signs.

E. R. Majors, the new secretary, has been the house manager for the lodge for some time. The retiring secretary, W. W. Wasser, has held the office for the past 10 years. Wasser declined to be a candidate again, announcing that he expects to take an extended vacation.

Members of the order from all parts of the county were present at last night's session, which was preceded by a dinner served in the Elks' cafe. Entertainment was furnished by the American Legion orchestra and Ed Newman, vocalist. Oscar, the lodge's frisky young mule, kept the lodgemen in an uproar with his antics.

Member For 9 Years.

The newly elected exalted ruler has been a member of Santa Ana lodge for the past nine years. He is a salesman for the Reid Motor company. Gordon is considered one of the lodge's most active members. In addition to serving as leading knight during the past year, he was chairman of the social and community welfare committee and chairman of the sick committee.

Announcement of the dance which the lodge will hold March 17, was made last evening. All members of the order are invited to the dance. General business, balloting and initiation of candidates are scheduled for the next regular meeting on March 24.

The Rev. W. E. Pietsch, of San Francisco, will hold special services at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Berean hall, Fruit and Minter streets, it was announced today.

Dwight Hamilton was home over the week-end for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hamilton of 1103 North Main. Hamilton, who graduated with the Santa Ana high school class of '22, is now engaged as a radio operator on board the George Allen, engaged in South American shipping. He was initiated into radio operating while in charge of KFAW, The Register's broadcast station.

Lucile Minnix, who has been confined to her bed at 826 East Second street with influenza is reported still in a critical condition. Her mother is at her bedside.

First steps in the organization of a checker club in Santa Ana are being taken by R. P. Preston of the Preston Furniture company, 211 East Fourth street. Mr. Preston urges anyone, who is interested in the formation of such a club call on him at his store.

The Rev. D. Hall Young of Seattle, Wash., in charge of Alaskan missions, for the Presbyterian church, is to spend three or four weeks visiting his brother, Walter L. Young at Costa Mesa, commencing about April 5. While here the Rev. Mr. Young will renew the acquaintance of 20 or 25 Santa Anans who went upon an Alaskan trip conducted by him last year.

Arrivals at Hotel Santa Ana include Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Clark, Redlands; R. B. Curran, Bakersfield; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGuire, Bravely; T. S. Stephen, San Bernardino.

R. H. Stevenson, a retired business man of West Newton, Penn., is a guest at St. Ann's Inn.

FRENCH WRITER IS DISCUSSED AT BOOK CLUB

"Introduction to the works of Anatole France saved me from complete literary skepticism," declared Miss Della Watson last night in opening one of the most interesting programs which the Book Review club has been privileged to enjoy on the occasion of its monthly meetings in the Edward M. Nealley home at Tustin.

Miss Watson is a member of the faculty of Santa Ana junior college where she has the modern languages department and as an expert linguist, reads the modern classics in the original. Her familiarity with Anatole France is a direct result of that first introduction to his writings and her delight in their freshness, charm and individuality.

In her talk, Miss Watson quoted to the effect that true masterpieces in literature are those that cause the reader to think most and introduce to him the greatest variety of topics. She declared that thorough enjoyment of Anatole France was dependent upon a knowledge of literature and literary values, of the classics and of art in general, and stated humorously that such knowledge and the resultant appreciation of the master was one of the advantages of increasing years.

The status of Anatole France as an "ironist" precluded a complete appreciation of his works by the Anglo-Saxon races, who, declared the speaker, have never loved irony for its sake since the days of Dean Swift and his famous "Gulliver's Travels". She cited Tennyson and Matthew Arnold as shining examples of ironists fallen, through the use of irony in their writings, and questioned the contributing causes to such lack of appreciation, whether it might lie in an innate stupidity or in a certain simplicity of nature.

Stating that she wished to avoid the consummate bad taste of talking about a master when he might so much more ably speak for himself, Miss Watson devoted the greater part of the evening to reading excerpts from different works of France, showing his ability as a critic, as a novelist, historian, philosopher, short-story writer and master of the epigram.

Admiration for the literary masterpieces to which they were introduced, was shared by Book Review members with a keen appreciation of the ease and brilliancy with which Miss Watson translated as she read, for almost without exception, the volumes into which she delved, were in the original French, yet her English was so smoothly limpid, her diction so pure and her expression so sympathetic that it were as though she were reading from the printed English page.

Among volumes quoted from and recommended were the "Life and Letters" containing literary articles contributed to the Paris Times; "Revolts of the Angels," a political satire; "The Gods are A-Thirst," cited as being a "back-door" picture of the French Revolution; "Thais" that masterpiece which inspired the opera; "Joan of Arc," purely historical, and the result of twenty years of research; "The Garden of Epicurus," a study in philosophy; "The Red Lily," a sophisticated story of the Parisian smart set; "Penguin Island," declared by Mark Twain to have been one of the three perfect satires which had "succeeded in spanking humanity most soundly"; the other two being "Gulliver's Travels" and "The Man Who Corrupted Hadleyburg".

In the absence of Clarence Crookshank, president of the club, Robert Northcross presided and announced that the April meeting would offer an interesting review of Michael Arlen's much discussed novel "The Green Hat".

SUIT AGAINST DR. WM. FLOOD IS DISMISSED

The suit brought by Mrs. Helen Simons, of Long Beach, asking $25,000 damages against Dr. W. A. Flood, Santa Ana dentist, on grounds of asserted malpractice, collapsed late yesterday in the superior court, when Judge Z. B. West granted a defense motion for non-suit and refused to allow the case to go to the jury.

After the plaintiff had completed her case and before they presented any of their own testimony, Attorneys W. F. Menton and Combs, representing Dr. Flood, moved for non-suit, declaring that Mrs. Simons had failed to produce sufficient proof to justify submitting the case to the jury.

The court supported this view, and added that if a judgment in favor of the plaintiff should be awarded by the jury on the evidence as it stood, even without any defense evidence presented, the court would be forced to grant a new trial and set aside the judgment. Therefore, said Judge West, he considered it his duty to grant the motion for non-suit.

Dr. Flood's attorneys reviewed the testimony given on behalf of the plaintiff by various dentists, who admitted that Dr. Flood's course in treating the case of Mrs. Simons, after he had extracted a wisdom tooth for her, was in conformance with recognized good practice.

Mrs. Simons charged malpractice because a portion of the tooth had been left in her mouth, and was alleged to have caused her much suffering and compelled her to procure medical treatment. The dentists who testified for her agreed that, according to the circumstances as presented at the trial, Dr. Flood had pursued the proper course.

Members of Family Plan Birthday Surprise

Stag Dinner Enjoyed By Friendly Group At Young Home

Birthday Luncheon Is Enjoyed By Members Of Afternoon Club

Particularly happy in plan and consummation was the meeting yesterday of members and a few friends of the old Tuesday Afternoon club, an organization of 17 years standing which was entertained at the Dr. J. D. Thomas ranch home at Olive where Mrs. Thomas was celebrating a birthday.

Guests met for a 1 o'clock luncheon and found their places by means of charming cards, at a table centered with a mass of California sunshine caught in the petals of dozens of golden juncos. Tall yellow candles were yellow bows of silk and the enjoyable meal was the prevailing color wherever possible.

At the luncheon hour the guests took the opportunity to present Mrs. Thomas with the varied gifts of exquisite handwork with which they sought to express their affection. Each gift showed time, thought and love and the assortment was enjoyed by all.

Bridge formed the afternoon's diversion and Mrs. Alice Harris carried off honors, receiving the box of fine stationery which formed first prize. A set of attractive bridge scores fell to the lot of Mrs. William H. Spurgeon, scoring second high.

Mrs. Thomas was forced to share the interest of the occasion as birthday hostess, with Master Jack Remsburg Jr., adorable baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Remsburg who accompanied his mother as a club guest. Other guests included Mrs. Arthur Doman, Mrs. J. R. Porter and Mrs. J. Parsons, while the members of the Tuesday Afternoon club present were Miss Rosa Boyd, Miss Katherine Edwards and Mesdames Alice Harris, Robert E. Reid, R. M. Simon, Waldo E. Winslow, Leonard Jones, William H. Spurgeon, J. P. Hatzfeld, J. W. Tubbs and the hostess, Mrs. J. D. Thomas.

Games were played and delicious ice cream served with birthday cake.

Covers were laid for Mr. Young, William Adamson, William Adamson Jr., and Earle Adamson, Walter Fine, W. H. Halesworth, Harry Rath, Harry Jensen, Charles Lipscombe and E. F. Waite. It was regretted that James Birch of Huntington Beach was not able to be present. Mr. Birch and Mr. Halesworth came to California just 52 years ago yesterday.

In the evening other guests were present including Mesdames, William Adamson, W. H. Halesworth, Harry Rath, Harry Jensen, Charles Lipscombe, E. F. Waite, Clara Anderson, Olive Lopez and Mrs. George H. Dickson of Los Angeles; the Mesdames Minnie Young, Rose Young, Ruth Andrews, Miriam Adamson and the hostess, Mrs. Young.

Games were played and delicious ice cream served with birthday cake.

Completing their Santa Ana visit, Mrs. W. G. Dyer, wife of the late Judge Dyer of Nevada, and her daughter, Miss Ruth Dyer, who have been house-guests at East First street, will leave for Berkeley next week.

Many delightful things have been done to make the Southern California visit of the Dyers a memorable one and they declare that they are coming back next year for the winter months although property interests in Nevada preclude their making this a permanent home.

Last week Mrs. Alderman and her guests had the Pitten cottage at Laguna Beach where a succession of guests made a lively party.

Mrs. Mildred Bengel, of Pasadena, daughter of the hostess, was with them all week and Mr. and Mrs. Clark McClain and their daughters, the Mesdames Dorothy and Isabel McClain also of Pasadena, were guests during much of the time.

Others to spend a part of the week with them at the beach included Mrs. L. H. Charnow, and Mrs. Verne Oliver of Orange and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Alderman and son Frank of this city.

Today Mrs. Alderman and her guests left for Long Beach to remain until Saturday when they will attend the Nevada, Iowa, picnic at the McClain home in Pasadena. Leaving next week for Berkeley, the Iowa visitors will also visit in Portland, Seattle and other northern cities on their leisurely way home.

Stag Dinner Enjoyed By Friendly Group At Young Home

The birthday anniversary of William C. Young, pioneer of Santa Ana and for 20 years chief of the fire department, was very happily celebrated Monday evening at the beautiful new home of the Youngs, 1206 North Broadway.

Mrs. Young was assisted in carrying out the successful affair by Mr. Young's sister, Miss Minnie Young. The spacious rooms were bright with lovely carnations, sweet peas and other spring blossoms, many of which were the gifts of friends.

At 5:30 o'clock, dinner was served to 10 men, relatives and friends of the host. The table was centered with a bowl of sweet peas in pastel tints and tiny blue baskets held salted nuts, while colored candies in the shape of kernels of corn were spread over the snowy cloth. A sumptuous menu was served.

Covers were laid for Mr. Young, William Adamson, William Adamson Jr., and Earle Adamson, Walter Fine, W. H. Halesworth, Harry Rath, Harry Jensen, Charles Lipscombe and E. F. Waite. It was regretted that James Birch of Huntington Beach was not able to be present. Mr. Birch and Mr. Halesworth came to California just 52 years ago yesterday.

In the evening other guests were present including Mesdames, William Adamson, W. H. Halesworth, Harry Rath, Harry Jensen, Charles Lipscombe, E. F. ## MOODY AGAIN ON ANAHEIM'S POLICE FORCE

ANAHEIM, March 11.—Bert Moody, former chief of police in Anaheim, has been appointed as a regular officer on the local police force.

This was confirmed yesterday by Chief of Police Charles Nichols, who announced that Moody would take over a regular beat as patrolman.

The appointment of Moody will make the second member of the former police department to be continued on the present force. The other is Marcus Andrade, whose services were never discontinued. Moody, however, recently resigned as chief of police and Nichols was selected by the city trustees to fill the vacancy.

Anaheim Making Extensive Plans For Orange Show

ANAHEIM, March 11.—With artists at work designing entirely new decorations for the California Valencia Orange show, preparations are going forward rapidly for this annual Anaheim event.

Roy Thompson has been placed in charge of the construction work, and an advertising system that has never before been carried out in connection with the show will be put into effect this year. This will consist of billboard displays and electric signs on the highways from Ventura to San Diego, and east to the San Bernardino mountains. The advertising program is the most extensive ever attempted by the directors and is expected to result in a record-breaking attendance.

A great portion of space in the feature, industrial and auto exhibit departments, has already been chosen. Herman Stern, manager of the show, announced.

SCHOOL PLAN OF PLACENTIA IS NOT VALID

FULLERTON, March 11.—As a more or less final answer to those advocating separation of Placentia and contingent school districts from the Fullerton union high school district, is the statement in this regard made by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, in which he draws attention to section 1733A of the California statutes which prohibits such a move.

By this section no school district within two and one-half miles of a high school already established may be allowed to establish its own high school. The Placentia district is thus expressly prohibited from such move, declared Mitchell, and only by revision of the state school law could Placentia hope to succeed in breaking away, it is asserted.

CROSSING OR NO CROSSING OF RAILWAY TRACK PROBLEM OF NEGRO COLONY AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 11.—Coming close after the announcement at the chamber of commerce to the effect that the Pacific Electric company would not grant a crossing to the Pacific Coast club, a negro summer colony, was the assertion today that a crossing had been granted. The information was, however, unofficial, and could not be verified by local agents of the company.

A visit to the land owned by the negroes revealed that a board road, which had previously been laid from the coast highway to the Pacific Electric tracks, had been extended on the opposite side of the tracks and a board road has been made across the land. The property owned by the club lies about one-half mile east of Gamewell, between the Pacific Electric tracks and the Pacific ocean. It was purchased recently by an organization of colored people in Los Angeles.

D. M. Peters, head of the committee on the colony for the chamber of commerce, reported at the meeting of the organization recently that the Pacific Electric would not grant a right-of-way across its tracks unless the county board of supervisors gave its approval. Peters declared that he had assurance that the supervisors would not approve the plan.

Some doubt has been expressed

BOARD ACTIVE ON NEW BEACH H. S. SCHEME

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 11.—With another meeting of the high school board scheduled for next Monday night, plans are expected to be completed for a new high school building. It was announced today by M. G. Jones, principal of the high school. His announcement followed the regular meeting of the high school board Monday evening, at which time reports were heard from Dr. H. H. Hart and Dr. B. H. Peterson of the University of California, in regard to the needs of a school here.

According to members of the school board, it is expected that an answer to a proposition made to the Standard Oil company recently will be received this week. With the answer from the oil company in regard to a site for the school, and the complete survey of the two building experts, it is the plan of the school board to issue a booklet to the taxpayers and voters of the district apprising them of plans for a new school.

Every item pertaining to the new school, including the type of building, number of rooms, cost, equipment required, and all matters of expense, pertaining to a new school.

It was understood, if the Standard Oil company does not accept the proposition made by the school board for land on Seventeenth street opposite the grammar school, that steps would be taken to erect the new building on the present site. According to D. T. Tarbox, of the school board, it is planned to make the educational standards and facilities of the school among the best in the state.

ANAHEIM MAN HELD FOR THEFT OF CAR

ANAHEIM, March 11.—Alex Celayo of Anaheim must answer in the superior court in Los Angeles county to the charge of grand larceny, having been bound over by Judge U. E. White, Pomona and the bonds fixed at $2000. The defendant will be taken to the Los Angeles county jail to await trial, in default of bonds.

Celayo attended a dance in Pomona, and wanted to ride home, he says in a confession. He took an automobile belonging to George G. Shirk, which was parked in front of the American Legion hall, Pomona. While passing through Brea in the early morning, he was arrested by a motorcycle officer, who thought he was intoxicated.

The officer discovered the car was stolen and notified Pomona police, who had Celayo taken to the city jail there.

Costa Mesa Club Program Is Told

COSTA MESA, March 11.—The Friday afternoon club held an all-day meeting Friday, with a pot-luck luncheon at noon. Members were busy before and after luncheon, finishing various articles for the bazaar to be held March 31 and April 1 and 2.

After calling the meeting to order, Mrs. Huston, club president, made the following announcements of club activities for March: March 13, baby clinic at 10 a. m. at the clubhouse; March 17, St. Patrick's party at clubhouse, card games, dominoes and the like; March 20, club play, "Jimmy's Home Coming"; March 20, Limerick day.

Miss Plumer reported nine booths sold to business men of Costa Mesa and Santa Ana for the bazaar.

ANAHEIM, March 11.—Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Backs, Terry and Campbell chapel here for Mrs. Anna E. Glass, aged 89, pioneer resident of the city, who died late Monday at her ranch home on North Dale avenue.

Mrs. Glass came to California in 1886 from New York state, and has lived at the local ranch since 1896.

She is survived by two sons, F. L. and F. C. Glass, of Anaheim, and three daughters, Mrs. L. S. Outman of Ontario; Mrs. F. R. Redelberger of Fullerton; and Mrs. J. E. Pearce of San Francisco.

Trio Is Jailed at Huntington Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 11.—George Montgomery, 34, San Francisco; H. Wagoner, 43, Los Angeles, metal worker and A. J. Smith, 33, San Gesena, steam fitter, were in the local jail today charged with drunkenness, while police were looking up their activities and tracing a machine driven into a local garage by the trio.

Smith is well known in this city, having been here several times before. He is a brother-in-law of a well-known, formerly connected with a local newspaper.

Holve, and included, in addition to musical numbers, an address by F. C. Hathaway, a Los Angeles insurance man, who spoke on "The Prospects of 1925." George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, gave a short talk. The next regular meeting of the association will be held in Santa Ana.

DICTATORS OF FASHION AFTER FLAPPERS NOW

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The flapper must look to her laurels.

It isn't the reformers that are after her now, but the fashion dictators. They want to reinstate the grande dame, with her dignified ways, elaborate clothes and expensive tastes.

What is going to happen to the world's second largest industry if the garcon type of dress that doesn't need more than a string tie for trimming, and the felt hat that doesn't even need that, prevails?

Pretty soon we won't be spending anything at all for clothes! The first big drive against the flapper was made by the Retail Millinery Association at their spring fashion show.

The show marked the inaugural of a movement in millinery with society women, artists and designers co-operating to launch fashion-hats to be worn by the American women shown on models who represent the current ideals of American beauty.

No Flappers. The committee that passed upon the mannequins numbered such persons as Charles Dana Gibson, Neysa McMein, Heyworth Campbell, Frank Alva Parsons, and the list of patronesses was headed by the Duchess de Richelieu.

The artists did their job thoroughly and well. They selected an aggregation of dazzling beauties to show the rest of us how well we don't wear our clothes.

But there wasn't a flapper in the lot. She wasn't given a look-in. Simplicity was conspicuous by its absence. Lace, ribbons, flowers and feathers ran riot, formality and picturesqueness won out completely.

Finery Wins Victory. Lace staged a marvelous comeback. It dropped from large and small hats alike. Flowers oozed out from brims that have been severely plain. And there were streamers and bows enough to have satisfied even Reynolds or Watteau.

Ostrich feathers flaunted themselves as riotously as if they had not been passe for years. Colors were the vogue, pastel shades that have been relegated to the boudoir these several seasons past.

There were large floppy hats that distract men and small snappy ones that lead them on, but throughout femininity and the lavish use of gorgeous color and material was stressed.

Just how firmly embedded in American life flapper styles have become one cannot say. But quite obviously, it has come to a show-down between the flapper and the grande dame. And the grande dame has the whole garment industry lined up on her side.

OUR NEIGHBORS

RIVERSIDE—City officials have met with unexpected success in the use of hobo labor at Fairmount park, according to Park Superintendent R. C. Hendricks. This new help is being relied upon to complete many projects. Fifty tons of rock will be carried by the tramps, sentenced to hard labor for including Riverside in their schedules of stopping places, to a bridge at Fairmount park. "Henceforth, we expect it will be harder for us to pick up these vagabonds and put them to work," said Assistant Chief of Police Ralph Johnson. "They soon will pass the word along that Riverside is putting hobos on work, and they'll skip this city as a stopping-off place. We already are noticing a lesser number of tramps in the jungles northeast of town."

SOUTH PASADENA—The problem of getting 600 women to agree on one subject, that of choosing one of the five locations for a new clubhouse for the South Pasadena Women's club, is nearing solution. Five sites for a new club building have been offered the South Pasadena club women, who have been considering them for several months, unable to agree on any particular site. Now, it is understood, a committee has been appointed to eliminate the less desirable sites and it is believed that an agreement will be reached by the 600 club members.

WHITTIER—Ching "Ma" Ferguson, governor of Texas; Mabel Willebrandt, deputy United States district attorney, and Georgia Bullock, police judge of Los Angeles, are illuminating examples of a woman's ability to make good in positions usually accorded to men exclusively. Lillian Sherwood is judged her application with the city trustees for the office of city recorder, the office being made vacant by the resignation of Judge R. T. Walters, which is to become effective May 1. The office of city recorder is also that of police judge, so in case Mrs. Sherwood is appointed by the trustees speedily and other ordinance offenders will be required to familiarize themselves with the address "Her Honor" rather than "His Honor."

RIVERSIDE—Because Riverside assertedly pays a cent and a half more per gallon for gasoline than districts only seven miles west of this city, investigation has been ordered by chamber of commerce directors. Leading gasoline distributors will be questioned concerning the variation in prices, for which the chamber directors were unable to account. "We find that Riverside pays one and a half cents more per gallon than Wineville or west of a district of seven miles," a committee report to the chamber reads. "This seems unfair and unjust, and after consultation with local managers of oil companies, we find they are powerless to change the rates."

SOUTH PASADENA—A boulevard, 100 feet wide, intersecting the city east and west, and following the general line of Monterey road, is the project which South Pasadena planners are working on in conjunction with organizations of other communities. Plans are now in active preparation with the city engineering department contemplating this major improvement in South Pasadena's east and west traffic facilities.

SLAYER DRAWS 90-DAY TERM ON CHAIN GANG

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Ninety days for murder. Sam Knezovich drew his sentence here in Judge Collier's courtroom.

Knezovich was indicted for shooting John Propolis on Christmas day. He testified at the grand jury inquisition that he had permission of a detective to kill Propolis because he owed him $9000. The court allowed Knezovich to plead guilty to manslaughter, and gave him 90 days on the county chain gang.

Detective Yarrow testified he told Knezovich to "bring him in" when the latter complained Propolis owed him money.

Knezovich, who understands English imperfectly, said he understood this to mean he could shoot the debtor and bring him in dead.

SEA GNAWS AT ENGLISH SHORE AT RAPID PACE

LONDON, March 11. — Once again the question of coast erosion in East Anglia and elsewhere has assumed grave importance. Hardly a day passes without a slice of valuable land being swallowed up by the sea.

In some places on the Yorkshire coast sixteen feet of land is being eaten away every year. From Flamborough Head to the Spurn, approximately fifty miles, there were once thirty-five flourishing towns and villages, which have vanished under the sea. Recently a large encroachment threatening serious consequences for the district was reported from St. Leonards. Galley Hill, half way between, while the railway line between Hastings and Brighton is threatened.

Towns Ignore Intervening Areas

The sea is peering away steadily on the west coast, too. The plight of Barmouth, on Cardigan bay, is perilous owing to the continued inroads. The surveyor reported a few weeks ago that the sea was now attacking another part of the promenade, and that it had undermined the sea wall for some distance, besides making a big hole in the promenade itself.

Little or nothing is being done to stop the erosion, except in a few cases where seaside towns look after their own stretch of seashore by the erection of a stout sea wall. But the lonely stretch of coastline to either side of a town is left to look after itself.

One of the largest sea defense schemes, that at Lowestoft, is rapidly nearing completion. The government states that the sea erosion problem is such a big one that it cannot tackle it," remarked Prof. E. R. Matthews, who is acting in an advisory capacity to the Lowestoft scheme.

First Government Aid

It is pleasing to note that in the case of Lowestoft, where the scheme is costing $675,000, the ministry of health offered, and the offer was accepted, to allow the local authority to spend $165,000 on condition that the money come out of the unemployment fund.

The town was full of unemployed, and about 400 local men were put on to the work of excavation. The new wall is three-quarters of a mile in length, and comprises a carriage drive sixty feet wide. That is the first case of a government grant toward the cost of a sea defense scheme.

The world's largest clam-shell, weighing twenty pounds without the mollusc itself, is in the American Museum of Natural History, in New York. The giant bivalves, of which the creature that once wore this shell was one, are native of the waters of the Indian ocean, the East Indies, and the Philippines. They are edible, and their shells are so hard that the natives make axes-heads of them.

The Boulder Dam Project

A series of articles, one to appear in each issue of the Register, will appear in The Register. William J. Carr, writer of this series of articles on the Boulder Canyon Project was a member of the State Senate from 1912 to 1922. He is a director and also vice president of the Boulder Dam association, an organization consisting of some two hundred cities, counties, chambers of commerce, farm bureaus, Legion posts and civic organizations, associated together to forward the project. He has closely followed its development for several years, and is accurately informed in respect to its various aspects.—Editor Register.)

The All-American canal feature Mexico in a manner which may or may not be the Boulder canyon project is sometimes termed a local issue, meaning thereby an issue of importance only to the Imperial valley. While it is of very vital importance to that valley, it has a far wider significance.

The United States owns at least 200,000 acres of land adjacent to the Imperial valley. This land is now desert. It is, however, of the same character as the land in the valley. It is potentially a second Imperial valley. The agricultural areas tributary to the populous coast region are fast becoming urban. The coast needs the development of a new agricultural region such as this would become. Because of the topography of the country, the expense of bringing water to this body of public land is too great to make feasible a project for its reclamation, when standing by itself. The Imperial valley, for a variety of very good reasons, desires to secure its water supply without maintaining its canal long distances through Mexico. The Conchella valley is badly in need of water. It desires a supply from the Colorado. An All-American canal will serve these two valleys and also this land owned by the United States. An advantageous opportunity for co-operative effort is thus presented.

Remove Friction

The Government has another interest in an All-American canal. At present the Imperial valley secures its water both for domestic use and for irrigation from a canal starting at the river a few miles above the Mexican boundary line and thence running some sixty miles through Mexico before reaching the valley. The very existence of such a situation is provocative of complications, difficulties and animosities likely to result at any time in international friction. The United States is, of course, interested in preventing grounds for dispute arising. An All-American canal will remove a fertile field of misunderstanding and controversy.

The United States is interested in still another way in seeing that the All-American canal is built. Even though the waters of the Colorado river be fully conserved, it is very doubtful if there is enough water for the full development of irrigable land in the United States, the furnishing of a domestic water supply to Southern California cities and the irrigation of some 600,000 acres of land in Mexico not now under irrigation. The best and most recent studies indicate there is not. Soon the process of conservation is bound to commence. Dams will be built. The present erratic flow of the Colorado will become a steady or regulated flow. The conserved water will become available for use. This result will be accomplished by expenditures in the United States.

If this conserved water is once applied to the irrigation of the vast tract of unirrigated land in Mexico, it will become the basis for a claim by Mexico that its continued use in that country should be recognized by treaty. Where water is once used on land, it is almost impossible to take it away.

Look to Own Future

The All-American canal will apply a substantial amount of the conserved and augmented flow of the river to the irrigation of lands in the United States. As to the balance of the increased flow, it will place the United States in a strategic position to so control its use that it will not be applied in

It is sometimes said that the All-American canal feature of the Boulder canyon project is a load

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The farmer has been framed again, in the opinion of Senator Arthur Capper.

Two-dollar wheat did it. Wheat at $2 a bushel, Capper thinks, was largely responsible for the brakes being applied to proposed agricultural relief measures, pending in Congress.

The result was the failure of Congress to enact the recommendations of the president's agricultural commission, by which the administration's pledge to agriculture was to have been redeemed. Interests hostile to farm relief, Capper charges, with $2 wheat as a club, hammered home the idea that there was not and never had been a real farm problem justifying the overhauling of the machinery of farm marketing.

"According to these claimants," says Capper, "the farmer is now a Croesus, luxuriating in the golden stream of $2 wheat."

"But this not a true picture. 'Speculators and gamblers, not the wheat growers, reaped this Chicago wheat pit harvest.'"

"The facts are that last year's wheat crop brought the wheat farmer between $1 and $1.25, and not the $2 he is now credited with getting."

"To be sure, $1.25 wheat, and an unprecedented large yield per acre, made last year's crop the most profitable since the war."

"But the farmer sold his wheat—the vast bulk of it—before Nov. 1, and when wheat soared to $2 in Chicago, the farmer who had plowed, planted and harvested the grain had none of it to sell."

"Price increases between election and the new year were such that the farmer, according to Julius Barnes, merchant exporter, lost just about $400,000,000 by his early selling."

"The consumer of bread will pay this $400,000,000. But the farmer didn't get it."

General Isaac Sherwood, who retires from Congress March 4 at

Didn't Know His Brother

"My brother got so bad with stomach and liver trouble that when I saw him after a year I didn't know him. He was emaciated and yellow as a pumpkin and was often in great pain. He couldn't have lived long the way he was going. Doctors and medicine gave him no relief. I picked up a little booklet on May's Wonderful Remedy, which he said described his case perfectly. The first dose of it gave him great relief and in a month he was good as ever." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

Farmers of U. S. Warned Against Foreign Seeds

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The department of agriculture has sent out a warning against the purchase of certain foreign seed, especially the kind called German clover seed.

Italian clover seed, which the department finds inferior to domestic seed, is being shipped to Germany, packed and shipped to America under the guise of German clover seed, the department reports.

There is small chance that this is German seed, the warning adds, because Germany does not even produce enough seed for her own use.

Alfalfa seed from Argentina is equally misleading, because most of it comes from the semi-tropical zone and is unfit for planting in the temperate zone here.

Coney Island and sugar cane chewing were two adventures to which James Stephens, the smoldering-eyed Irish poet and romancer, had long looked forward.

But when he recently arrived in America, Coney was closed and his lecture tour didn't include the cane-chewing regions. There was plenty to discover, however, he found.

And out of his observations comes an important literary production: the present realistic writing is but paving the way for the coming school of romantic writers.

"We live in a mechanical age. Hence our artists are critical," he points out. "Realism limits the writer to repertorial presentation of facts. He cannot get beyond certain lines. But, because of the mood of the times, that is only natural. In a few years the romancers will rise and bring the artistic renaissance."

His tour in all likelihood, will introduce the name of James Stephens to places where it is all too little known. In which event great delight awaits those who discover for the first time "The Crock of Gold" or "Deirdre" or "In the Land of Youth" (MacMillan).

The mention of "railists" brings to mind G. D. Eaton's new novel, "Backfurrow" (Putnam), which savagely and acidly draws a picture of drab farm life in Michigan. The reviewer has little acquaintance with farming in that section, but realizes that this is hardly a volume to receive the recommendation of the Department of Agriculture.

Ralph, the farm boy, is completely crushed, baffled and knocked over time upon time just as his illusions are in the ascendant. The writer's passion rises until one wonders what a farm ever did to him to get him that way. Yet Eaton writes with fine strength and virility. There are many reminders of Dreiser in its pages. After reading it the reviewer wonders more than ever: "How're you going to keep 'em down on the farm."

Another, and quite different small-town picture, comes from William Dudley Pelley. It is "Drag" (Little, Brown Co.), and the scene is Vermont. Here again we meet unhappy folk, but under circumstances that are of the flesh rather than the soil. Actually Pelley seems to have planned a comedy with the beating of sardonic drums off stage.

David Haskell has come to the small town to work on a newspaper. Now Pelley and his father ran a Vermont paper for some years and won no small reputation. So the writer is able to give a first-hand picture that is filled with color and incident. The general theme of the story is the manner in which a young man, through marriage, can wed the entire family and wear an economic millstone around his neck thereby. Thus his chances for success are continuously swatted, though in the end he escapes.

But there's a laugh for the whole family in one output of the week: "The Prince of Washington Square" (Stokes), by Harry Liscomb, "the boy novelist." Here is a book reminiscent of "The Young Visitors," which occasioned much mirth a season or so ago. Written in the most "hifalting" style, it depicts the dime novel adventures of a real "sheik" and its pages are inhabited by cake-eaters, flappers, sheikas and the whole modern tribe. Slang abounds and the fun rises largely out of the style of writing which may be measured by this phrase: "He didn't believe in shouldering the responsibility of connubial beatitude" or "She returned with another apple pie and proffered it to Toby, whose palpitating heart knew no bounds of felicity." "It is good satire on 'flossy' writing."

The off-shore isles, inlets and marshes off the Georgia coast, with the endless ebbings and flowings of the tides, provide the music for the background of Marie Oemler's colorful and fast-moving story.

Stage and Screen

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.
WEST END—"The Devil's Cargo," with William Collier Jr., Pauline Starke and Wallace Beery.
YOST—Vaudeville and "The Brass Bowl," with Edmund Lowe, Walker—Vaudeville and "Married Flirts," with Pauline Frederick and Conrad Nagel.

EDMUND LOWE IS STAR OF "BRASS BOWL"

Edmund Lowe as a star and "The Brass Bowl" as a photo-drama stood the test of an interesting premiere before a critical audience at the Yost theater last night, and out of a spirit of fairness, it must be admitted this combination for entertainment emerged quite adorned with blue ribbons, figuratively speaking. This is a William Fox production, admirably presented and much credit should be given to Jerome Storm for his splendid directorial work.

"The Brass Bowl" is an adaptation of the popular novel by Louis Joseph Vance and the ingratiating spirit of the author in the development of his theme is preserved in the cinematic version. For this wise version, praise is due Thomas Dixon Jr., who prepared the scenario.

The story revolves around the adventures of a handsome bachelor who happens to look so much like a notorious crook that he is mistaken for him and becomes involved in a police case replete with thrills. To say the plot is suspenseful is expressing it mildly, because this is one of those few pictures which really keeps whole audiences clinging to the edge of their seats, literally, at times.

"THE DEVIL'S CARGO" NOW SHOWING AT WEST END.

What is "The Devil's Cargo?" It's Victor Fleming's latest production, which is the feature all this week at the West End theater, featuring Pauline Starke, Wallace Beery, William Collier Jr. and Claire Adams, with Raymond Hatton and others appearing in support.

Wallace Beery has his greatest screen role in this picture, an adaptation of the story "The River Boat," by Charles Wildaker. He plays the role of a massive stoker on the "River Boat" which is chartered by the vigilantes of Sacramento to deport the town's undesirables. There is a mutiny on board and Beery comes up on deck to find the captain slain. He takes the first mate, a part played to perfection by Hatton, and tosses him into the sea, dons the captain's hat and assumes command. Here's the situation: Two young girls and one good man adrift in the middle of the Pacific with a cargo of the lowest sort of humans imaginable and forced to cater to the slightest wishes of a mad man.

What happens? That's what's making the picture prove so popular at the West End.

LAWYER ASKS JAIL TERM BE REDUCED

He is still accused of receiving stolen property, and must stand trial on that charge in federal court April 7.

Findlay, like Hemmi, received a comparatively light sentence, his being 11 months, which he has completed, having been placed in jail some months before Hemmi was sentenced.

Abernathy was sentenced to five years at Leavenworth prison and ordered to pay a fine of $10,000.

"His Wife-in-Law" (Century). The book opens daintily with a hero carrying off the heroine. Of course he is a rich young man of high birth, etc., and, of course, she has been spoiled for wifehood by being reared as an heiress. She consents to marry only because she has been away from home so long that it would seem scandalous. It's good light reading.

The chief criticism of Floyd Dell's new novel "This Mad Ideal" (Knopf) lies in the assumption that being "modern" is still an intriguing subject. Girls that set out to "find themselves" and all that sort of thing have been written about until, like circus costumes, they seem road-worn. But Dell has written a very readable book about such a gal and if you're not tired of her, then Judith Valentine, who is somewhat of a feminine "moon calf," will interest and amuse you. His psychology is convincing and in the first section of the novel where Judith's childhood is pictured there is some exceptionally good work.

Farm News of Orange County

TWO MEASURES EXPLAINED BY BUREAU CHIEF

BY A. M. STANLEY
Secretary-Manager, Orange County Farm Bureau

Commission merchants and all firms or corporations handling farm produce would be required to obtain a license and a bond guaranteeing their honesty according to assembly bill No. 225, Adams, which has been introduced in the present state legislature at the instance of the California Farm Bureau federation as a result of the numerous requests received from the different counties.

The intent of the bill is not to work a hardship upon any agency dealing in farm products but merely to call for honesty and proper accounting of finances to the consignees.

Plan Surety Bond.

The desired result is arrived by the requirement of each person, firm or corporation dealing in agricultural commodities to be placed under a surety bond as a guarantee of honesty and proper financial responsibility. In addition to this provision the bill calls for the prompt payment to shippers after the sale of goods at all times, by proper authorities, regarding the manner of sale.

Proper provisions will be made in the bill to exempt co-operative marketing associations and those handlers of farm products who merely trade in farm products without handling any goods on commission.

Oleo Bill Offered.

Along this same line of protection afforded both the producer and the consumer, a bill dealing with the sale of oleomargarine is being promoted by the federation. Assembly bill No. 878, Johnson, prevents the use of dairy terms in the sale of oleomargarine and calls for the use of a distinct package to prevent confusion in the public mind between dairy products and this and other similar artificial products. According to provisions of the bill, oleomargarine must be sold in cubes and the word "oleomargarine" must be printed in letters not less than half the size of the trade name.

This bill is of vital necessity for the protection of the dairy industry from the menace of an imitation commodity and amends a law that has not been materially changed during the last 30 years in California. Coconut oil, the principal ingredient of oleomargarine, is a product of the South Sea and Philippine islands and shipped from that place, is not subject to duty. The cost of coconut oil is about one-quarter the cost of butter, while the price charged is about one-half the price of butter, leaving a wide margin for the manufacturer of this imitation.

No Substitute For Butter.

The comparative food value of the two products, according to expert authority, is that no substitute can be used for butter in the proper diet of a human being. But the present perfection of manufacturing the imitation and the manner of its sale, makes it appear equal to the valuable dairy food product. It is claimed that many people use the substitute without knowledge, particularly in public eating places.

The importance of the dairy industry to the economic structure of the state is indicated by the fact that the income from the industry in the last fiscal year amounted to $119,000,000. Unless proper protection of this character is given the dairy industry great economic hardships will befall and the industry will likely decline. In this section, such a decline would necessarily increase fresh milk prices.

Crop Estimates Of U. S. Guarded With Great Care

The U. S. department of agriculture guards its crop estimates with extreme vigilance. The reason is that knowledge of a new estimate even one minute before it is officially announced, may mean thousands of dollars profit to an unscrupulous operator.

Therefore government estimators give out these reports at the same time, and make news reporters toe the mark. The estimates are made up in a guarded room. A few minutes before the time of release, the reporters enter an adjoining room and take their places at designated lines.

The reports are brought in and placed on a table. At the proper time the signal is given and all snatch up the reports at the same time. They rush to the nearest telephone and call up their offices.

Livestock Parade Planned March 17 By Perris Center

PERRIS, March 11. — Livestock will be on dress parade in Perris valley, Riverside county, March 17. The show is being held under the auspices of the Perris Valley Farm Center, and the members invite the world to come and celebrate with them. No admission charge will be made and as a special inducement the center will serve free coffee for those who bring their lunch.

This celebration and fair was started six years ago. It has become an annual event for not only the advertising of Perris valley livestock, but it has also become an educational institution. For the coming fair, the center announces "some short words of wisdom from some of the agricultural leaders of the Southland."

Four Centers Of County Plan Sessions

Three farm centers of Orange county, Tustin, La Habra and Garden Grove, will hold meetings tomorrow night.

The Villa Park center meets tonight. At the Tustin meeting, the speakers will be L. W. Fluharty, farm management specialist, who will speak on "The Present Status of Agriculture," and H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, who will talk on "Pruning Trees Damaged by Wind or Frost."

At La Habra, speakers will be E. C. Campbell, rancher, J. A. Baker, superintendent of La Habra schools and the Rev. Geo. Hayson. The Garden Grove center speaker will be John C. Tuffee, who will speak of his trip to Florida.

Fluharty and J. M. Alcorn, Fullerton nurserymen, will speak at the Villa Park center tonight.

LEGISLATIVE GROUP ACTIVE ON MEASURES

SACRAMENTO, March 11.—Approving and disapproving bills pending in the legislature, as their merits deserved, the agricultural legislative committee held a two day session here this week, and took action on nearly a hundred measures affecting agriculture. The committee, composed of 32 commodity organizations in California, with 70,000 farmer members and a combined annual business amounting to upward of $200,000,000, has a powerful influence on agricultural legislation, as is evidenced by the fact that in the last two legislative sessions, since its organization, it has not lost a single important fight.

The committee reaffirmed its position on reappointment, supporting the principle that control of one house shall remain with the rural portion of the state. It went on record as supporting the measures that will shift some of the burden of the state from the farmer, among these being the state constitutional amendment to tax publicly owned utilities and the proposed federal amendments to tax incomes from tax exempt securities and to stop the issuance of more of these securities.

The legislative committee approved the plan for the agricultural council to direct the state department of agriculture. This council is to be composed of nine members, serving 12-year terms, without salary. However, the committee amended the measure so that instead of appointing the director of the department, the proposed council would submit a list of three names to the governor, from which the director would be appointed.

TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE DANGEROUS

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Farmers are fast awakening to the need of eradicating tuberculosis from the cattle of the country.

At one time tuberculosis in cattle was to be found only east of the Allegheny mountains. Now in every state in the union there is some tuberculosis in cattle and swine.

Farmers' organizations are finding it much to their advantage to give the tuberculin test to every cow in their districts.

The test is made by injecting a chemical known as tuberculin between the layers of the skin. If an animal is tuberculous there will be a swelling at the point of injection which can be observed in 48 to 108 hours.

The government and state takes care of part of the loss to the farmer who has tuberculous cattle. When a cow proves to be a reactor she is branded, generally by burning a "T" on the jaw. The owner generally gets about two-thirds of the value of those affected.

It is impossible to tell by external appearances, except in extreme cases, whether the animal is affected. Often a very healthy looking cow will be affected.

The tuberculous cow is not only a menace to other cattle but is also a common source of infection to hogs. Swine seem to be extremely susceptible to tuberculosis. Many buyers offer 10 cents extra per hundred as a premium for hogs which come from a county where all cows are tested and certified.

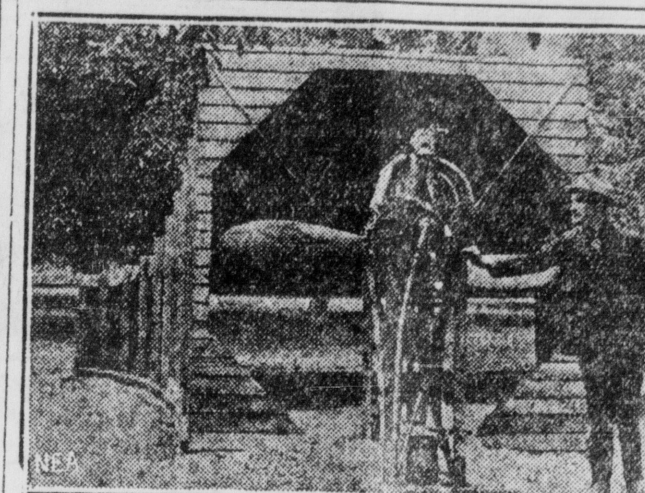

Most progressive dairymen have adopted what is known as the accredited herd plan. After two successive annual tests are made and a herd is found to be not certified by the state and federal government.

Cattle from accredited herds are selling much higher at all community public sales.

A novel motor car without wheels is equipped with two pairs of runners each 10 feet long. These are alternately raised and lowered in advance so that the machine walks along on them very much as a horse walks on its four legs. Loads of eight tons have been transported by this vehicle.

PREVENT FOREST LOSS

Ontario Man Invents Machines For Use In Groves

ONTARIO, Calif., March 11.—Goodbye smoky smudge pots! Citrus growers, deciduous fruit growers and housewives of Southern California are happy.

They see the passing of the smudge pot and with it soot-covered households.

W. D. Waterman, Ontario aeronautical engineer and commercial airplane pilot, is inventor of what he claims will eliminate the rolling clouds of sooty smoke resulting from orchard smudge pots, and at the same time protect orchards and groves from loss by frost.

Waterman has built two devices for fighting frost. One is a wind machine, designed for deciduous fruit orchards, and the other is his "heat mill" for use in citrus groves.

The machines, Waterman says, may apply to apple and other orchards, as well as the orange and lemon groves of California, Arizona and Florida.

Air Circulated.

Both have been given thorough tests, and results attained are satisfactory. They are constructed on the principle of keeping air in circulation among the trees, and in extreme cases force warmer air through the natural air currents to raise the temperatures above freezing.

Gasoline motors and air plane propellers are used.

The wind machine is faced with the natural air currents. A strong wind is generated that travels to all corners of a 10-acre tract, stirring the air constantly.

Experiments have shown that the temperature of groves has been raised several degrees on tracts served by the wind machine during freezing periods, and only in rare extreme cases has it been necessary to use the auxiliary heater. This works on a same principle as a blow torch, the warm air being mixed with the currents generated by the machine.

Spreads Warm Air.

Nobody has ever actually seen a giant old-fashioned phonograph horn inverted over a railway water tank, but first glance at Waterman's "heat mill" would cause the spectator to believe he was seeing just such a thing.

An airplane propeller surmounts the top of the pagoda-looking device. When the propeller is set in motion it forces air down against the sides of the pagoda, which in turn is thrown out over a great area and over the tops of the trees in the groves.

If necessary an auxiliary plant inside is lighted, warm air drawn out through the cracks in the pagoda, and the air thereby warmed for the trees.

INVESTIGATE USE OF ELECTRICITY

Professor Ben D. Moses of the agricultural engineering division of the college of agriculture, Davis, is in charge of an investigation of the uses of electricity on California farms. The project has been approved by the agricultural experiment station and is being directed by it and the California committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture.

This committee is outlining its study of the uses of electricity on the California farm, and in order for this work to be completed it is planning to make a survey of all rural electric power users of the state. The method contemplated is to have the power company mail each of their farmer customers a return postal-card containing questions with tabular columns for replies.

Meats Certified For Export Reach Large Aggregate

Records of the federal meat-inspection service for the last fiscal year show that more than 2,000,000 pounds of meat and meat products were certified for export. The classes of meat were as follows: Beef and beef products, 176,561,063 pounds; mutton and mutton products, 2,702,539 pounds; pork and pork products, 1,940,001,358 pounds; horse meat products, 929,109 pounds; total, 2,120,194,468 pounds. In addition the meat-inspection service issued certificates for the export of $5,476,692 pounds of inedible animal products.

The figures are not identical with actual exports but show, rather, the quantity of products that were certified for that purpose. This large outlet is regarded as beneficial to the livestock industry of the United States, and it is based largely on foreign confidence in the system of inspection which assures wholesome products.

HARVEST ONION CROP BY MEANS OF NEW DEVICE

STOCKTON, Calif., March 11.—Harvesting, grading and sacking onions by machinery is the newest thing in California's onion industry.

Roscoe Zuckerman, who farms some 2700 acres of delta land in San Joaquin county, has introduced this idea and proved it practical.

For many years Zuckerman has been producing large crops of onions and potatoes. The labor required entails a big financial outlay. Onions must be set out by hand, hand weeded and the common practice is to pull and sack them by hand.

Zuckerman has employed several hundred men to handle his onion crop. Last year, as the outcome of five years of experimenting, he placed in operation an outfit which enabled 15 men to accomplish what it had taken 100 men to do under ordinary conditions.

Quicker Work.

Under ordinary harvesting methods a crew of men is turned loose in a field to pull up the onions and leave them in windrows on the ground to cure.

Then, instead of sending the men back to sack the onions, Zuckerman sends in a mechanical loader which runs along picking up the onions and dumping them into a large cart. This loading outfit operates like a potato digger with its continuous belt conveying the onions from the ground to an elevation from which they are dropped into the cart. It is pulled by a light tractor.

Wired a cart is loaded a tractor is attached and the cart pulled away while another is put in its place.

It takes three men to complete this part of the harvesting operation.

Grader and Sacker.

For grading and sacking, Zuckerman has devised an outfit that fills more than 1500 sacks a day and requires less than a dozen operators. Four different grades are used.

The onions are dumped from the carts into a large bin, from which they are fed on a cleated belt carrier and are carried to the top of the machine. At the top the conveyor runs on the level for a short distance and th bulk of the chaff and foreign material is lost.

From the conveyor the onions roll into the grading bins, which are automatically kept shaking. Onions of various sizes fall through the slats and are automatically graded. By the time the onions reach the bottom and are ready to sack they are entirely free from chaff and foreign material and have been strictly graded.

WEST INDIES
HERE'S THE LOCAL SPORTS
By Ed West

A proposition for the establishment of a game refuge on Mt. San Jacinto will come before the California legislature at this session. It should receive the cordial and active support of all Santa Anans who love wild game.

Those who are familiar with the region of the proposed game refuge know there is urgent necessity of protection being extended to its wild life, especially to the deer, which, through the annual slaughter of the bucks, are fast approaching extermination.

For the information of hunters who may be fearful of losing some hunting privileges, if the refuge should be established the fact should be emphasized that the area will cover only a small part of the territory in that region which has always been considered good "deer country"; and that it will really be a great gain—from the hunter's standpoint—in that it will furnish a protected breeding ground from which the contiguous territory will be continually stocked.

The region is one of great natural beauty. It is reached only by trails and offers the best opportunity for establishing a sanctuary where may always be found a bit of the charm and attractiveness that originally belonged to all the mountains of California. Within it would be preserved and fostered the wild life of every sort that once was common in our mountains.

Mt. San Jacinto is one of the few remaining regions retaining something of its original wildness and where still persists enough of native wild life, which, if given protection, may be brought back to a state approaching its primitive plenitude.

HOCKEY AND THE MODERN GIRL

The game of hockey, now a popular recreation pastime for young women of the Santa Ana high school, offers local color apropos the "modern girl" of which much has been written and more has been said.

Hockey is nothing more or less than the good old game of "shinny" which beguiled youths used to, and we hope, still clutter what vacant lots are left in our fair city.

Frankly, girls' hockey is twice as rough as girls' basketball. Indoor baseball and tennis, the only other outdoor athletic activities officially sponsored by the school are, comparatively speaking, mild forms of pleasure.

It wasn't many years ago that girls' basketball was discarded here. It was altogether too exhausting for our young women, we were told. The time is fresh in our memory as well when tennis was frowned on and was all but eliminated from our athletic curriculum.

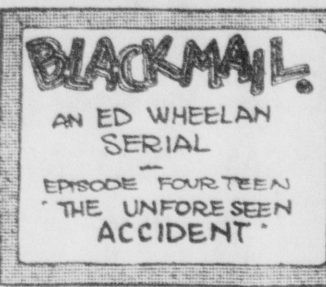

But tennis tenaciously held on. Basketball "came back". Indoor baseball gained recognition. And now we have hockey which, whether alarmists like it or not, we'll describe as an invigorating recreation requiring practice, precision and condition.

We may be living in a "modern age" and we may have too many "modern girls" but, thank heavens, at last we are "modern" enough to condone exercises that develop lungs and muscles and body and health and poise and grace in those "modern girls".

LOCALS SMASH BALL HARD TO BEGIN SEASON

Coach Lyman Kidman's Men Make Debut on S. A. Lot Tomorrow

In its first encounter of the season with an "outside city" team, Coach Lyman Kidman's Santa Ana high school baseball team yesterday afternoon easily drubbed the Garden Grove high school nine, 12 to 3, at Garden Grove. The Poly aggregation, off to a slow start, tied the score in the third inning, went out in front in the next frame and lambasted the enemy gunner for six tallies in the seventh and last round.

Floyd ("Tex") Reister, Kidman's big pitcher, was on the firing line for Poly and he moved down the foe with startling regularity after a disheartening first inning when an error and some loose playing by the Poly infield allowed three Garden Grove runs to dribble across the rubber. After the initial stanza he was well nigh invincible.

Irvine, Poly center fielder, was the lone local man to garner more than one swat. He hit twice for singles. Chet Siegel, first baseman hammered out a long homer and Detwiler, right fielder connected for a double.

Kidman has outlined a busy preliminary season for his cohorts. The team will make its public debut at Poly field tomorrow afternoon, Garden Grove coming here for a return fracas. Downey, boasting a fast outfit, is slated to appear here Friday. Coach Kidman will have his team in action with outside competition at least twice a week, he said today.

From their showing yesterday, local fans are expecting great things from the Poly benchmen. The team has a lot of "power-house" sluggers and it is far from weak in the pitching department although it could stand a strong right hand chucker, Reister and Spencer, the two first string moundsmen being left-handers.

Middlebrook, the catcher, is a veteran of last year's outfit and Captain Arnold Norton and Ed Daley, second and third basemen, respectively, are experienced hands. Siegel, the basketball player, apparently has first base sewed up. He is a big fellow and he handles the difficult ones nicely.

Ray Smith and Roy Schoettler are putting up a whale of a fight for the shortstop berth, both showing a lot of class in the Garden Grove quarrel.

Irvine, Bell, Detwiler and Stierle look to have the edge on the outfield candidates.

Caddy Used for Human Golf Tee Believed Dying

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 11.—As a result of his head being used as a tee, John Gates, 15 year old caddy at the Pensacola country club, is believed dying today from a crushed skull. Joe Winegrass, another caddy, found Gates sleeping on the course and figured his head would make a fine tee. Winegrass missed the ball, and crushed his skull with a badly directed stroke.

NURMI TO RUN MILE AGAINST RAY AND HAHN

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 11.—Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest runner, who has been jogging his way to hollow victories since his first race in this country, will get his first real test here next week when he will enter two open races at a mile and 5000 meters.

The committee in charge of the Knights of Columbus games to be held in Madison Square Garden March 17 has secured the consent of Jole Ray, Lloyd Hahn, Leo Larivee and Jimmy Connolly to run against the Finn in the mile race and Willie Ritola has agreed to oppose his rival in the mile and in the 5000 meters race.

These two races against the best competitor in the United States may furnish the novel sight of a couple of runners at the heels of the Olympic star forcing him to let out a couple of notches on the throttle that has grown rather rusty in the last month.

Nurmi beat the class of this country in the mile race the first time he ran here and he also ran away from Ritola over the 5000 meters distance but since then he has shown a disposition to stay away from those distances and to avoid competition that would press him.

No one wants to insinuate that Nurmi is afraid of those distances he runs, that he would have to meet in them, and it is only courteous to accept his claim that he had such a heavy program arranged for him and that he could not run against a picked field three times a week and keep himself in condition.

SCHAEFER'S PLAY IN CUE TOURNAMENT WITHOUT EQUAL

S. A. BOWLERS MEET JAHNKES THURS. NIGHT

Hail the new champion! In other words, doff your lids to Jake Schaefer, newly crowned king of the billiard world. For Young Jake squats atop the balkline throne today.

Schaefer, as the sportive fraternity now knows, gained the highest honors in the cue universe the other day when he skipped through the international tournament test without meeting defeat. And not only did he surprise most of the experts by so doing, but he took occasion to hang up several records that are quite apt to last for many years.

His most sensational marksmanship feat, of course, was the running of 400 points from spot in his match with Erich Hagelacher, the German star. This was one of the most spectacular pieces of work in the annals of the game.

Then there was his decisive victory over Walker Cochran when he ran out in two innings, getting 112 and 238 points right off the bat. Add to these his consecutive clicks of 581, which he accrued over one full game and portions of two others. Nothing of so sensational a nature had ever been exhibited in cue history before. It was marvelous!

This is not the first time Schaefer has held the title, however. Back in the 1921 tournament he whipped Hoppe, et al., to gain the top rung. And later proved it was no fluke by downing the stellar Willie in a special match in March of the following year.

TENNIS STARS IN BIG TITLE EVENT SUNDAY

With next Sunday, March 15, definitely set as the date for the much-postponed Santa Ana mixed doubles tennis tournament, entries for this first court classic of the year were reopened today by John Cress, president of the Santa Ana Tennis club, who said the organization is making arrangements. The games will be played at the Santa Ana high school.

Cress said that entries may be made until 9 a. m. Sunday at which hour the tournament will get under way. Persons interested should confer with Cress at the Ivy Stein photo shop or Victor Walker at the Walker sporting goods store, here.

Six teams already have signed up and at least another pair is desired to make the entry list an even draw.

The list is headed by Randolph Bell and Miss Frances ("Billy") Crockett, last year's champions. Those seeking to relieve Miss Crockett and Bell of their title include Cress and Miss Jean McGill of Fullerton; Clifford Marston and Miss Thelma Patton; Don Park and Miss Ida Thorman of Fullerton; Emil Foust and Miss Annie Tarver and Walter Lambert and Miss Eva McNeill.

Cress said the Tennis club had decided to award the silver cups as perpetual rather than permanent trophies but that the first team winning them three consecutive years will keep them.

A men's single tourney, open to all players of Orange county, will follow soon after the mixed doubles championship event. The singles classic is tentatively set for early in April.

KEARNS LEAVES FOR TITLE BOUT CONFA

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Jack Kearns, manager for Jack Dempsey, left today for Chicago where he will confer Saturday with Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, concerning a Dempsey-Gibbons world's championship fight here in June.

From Chicago Kearns will go to New York where he will seek terms for a match in the east with either Gibbons or Harry Wills, the colored challenger for the heavyweight title.

"If Eastern promoters do not offer me satisfactory terms for a championship fight, Dempsey will positively appear here in June," Kearns said just before his departure. "The fight will be staged during the Shriners' convention in June, and ought to draw a big crowd."

Penner and Deal Now Only Vernon Squad Holdouts

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—The Vernon baseball club today was at its full strength, with the exception of two men to whom contracts had been sent.

Eddie Moore and Ike Wolfer, recent holdouts, are now in uniform. Both men are outfielders, and left handed hitters. Moore checked in from Independence, Kan., while Wolfer dropped in from Portland.

The two holdouts are Ken Penner, pitcher, and Charley Deal, third sacker, neither of whom have given official notice of their intentions.

CAPTAIN BOB ROPER WINNER OVER SMITH

LOS ANGELES, March 11.—Capt. Bob Roper was given the referee's decision over Ralph Smith, Los Angeles heavyweight, in their 10-round bout at Doyle's Vernon Coliseum last night.

The bout was slow, the only action coming in the eighth round when Roper dropped Smith twice for the count of nine. Many of the spectators walked out on the show before the period was reached.

Low Rollinger and Young George fought a 6-round draw in the semi-windup.

ABOUT THROUGH

EVENING SALUTATION

A good word is an easy obligation; but not to speak ill requires only our silence, which costs nothing.—Tillotson.

ITS PROJECT COMPLETED

Santa Ana, municipally, has cause to envy San Bernardino just now, for San Bernardino city has completed a project by which that city is given a water supply ample to meet the needs of the city for many years.

Santa Ana, unfortunately, has made little progress in relation to getting for itself an ample water supply. There are other cities of Southern California that are no better off than we are. San Bernardino, however, is not numbered among them. Read what the San Bernardino Sun has to say editorially about its new project:

Within 10 minutes notice 1,615,792 gallons of water from Devil canyon can be sent rushing through the pipes in San Bernardino city! And when additional work ordered and financed is completed there will be available 3,000,000 additional gallons of water.

That is the news that Mayor Grant Holcomb has given to the city. It is news of the completion of the first and greatest phase of the Devil canyon project that due to the foresight of city officials and water commissioners dating back nearly four years, insures the first essential necessary for a greater city.

For political expediency the Devil canyon project was forced to bear the brunt of two campaigns. City officials who could not be discredited and who had the vision of what is vitally needed in San Bernardino refused to yield to the proposal that would have hamstringed the entire project. Their judgment has been vindicated. They have the thanks of an appreciative city.

The water department and the city engineer's office are entitled to the congratulations and praise extended by Mayor Holcomb, whose administration took over the project so ably launched and nearly completed by the McNabb administration.

"It is a San Bernardino product from start to finish!"

The words of the mayor are important. With the single exception of the riveted pipe, which could not be manufactured here, everything that went into the project, including all of the labor, was of San Bernardino.

And speaking of the men who worked on the project—all of them citizens and taxpayers—Superintendent Starke describes them to the water commissioners as real workers. They overcame obstacles to complete various units of the work on schedule. These men have laid 68,550 feet of water mains of varying sizes.

As the result of the efficient supervision of the entire project and decreased costs the work is costing $41,000 under the original estimates of $275,000 and this will make possible the extension of the system in needed directions.

In addition to furnishing the city with a tremendous new source of water, the Devil canyon project is so devised that it will lower operating costs. The water from Devil canyon will during much of the year take the place of water that is pumped at a heavy expense. It is gravity water, and the wells in Devil canyon will be pumped by the force of the water from the stream, thus largely reducing the cost of electric power.

San Bernardino now has a water supply that will care for its increased needs for many years, and it has a supply that will give water to sections of the city that a year ago had but little. It is a job well done.

GRADE CROSSING PROTECTION

The grade crossing problem in this country grows steadily more serious as population increases. Also the cost of eliminating these danger points is rising right along. A committee investigating conditions in the state of New York found that crossing elimination would cost about $70,000 for every mile of track. It would take many years and a vast outlay of money to do away with all the existing grade crossings in the United States.

Yet even if the country cannot afford to abolish all of these, it can still afford to go on killing people at such crossings. Certainly the worst should be done away with as promptly as possible. Others should receive greater protection. It was found in New York that of the 8,205 crossings in the state more than 5000 were unprotected except for warning signs. The best safety devices known should be installed and newer, fool-proof methods of protecting the public should be discovered. Incidentally future railroad construction should seek as far as possible to avoid the creation of any more such death traps.

GOVERNMENTAL EFFICIENCY

Secretary Mellon reports that in the five years from 1917 to 1922, during which the war was fought and won, and peace was established, and great domestic bond issues were floated and great foreign loans made, and money handled on a scale vast beyond precedent, the United States Treasury, under two administrations, retired $100,000,000,000 of securities with a loss of only $13,000. This loss was caused by petty thefts of retired securities from the files. Some mechanical and clerical errors were discovered, he says, but they entailed no losses.

It is doubtful whether any private corporation could make a comparable showing.

It is usual to speak with contempt of the government as a business institution. There has been admittedly, great waste and loss in some of the governmental departments, during the abnormal unsettlement of war and reconstruction. All the more reason, then, to recognize the conspicuous success of a majority of the government's activities during this period. Uncle Sam, at bottom, is a better business man than he is often given credit for.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IN CHICAGO

Chicago has courage, as befits a city whose motto is "I Will." At a time when public ownership of utilities is in public disfavor in this country, it is going to take over its surface and elevated lines and build new subways, at a cost of half a billion dollars.

It may be that in no other way can the tremendous problems of Chicago transportation be solved. If Chicago can solve them through public ownership and operation, it may turn the tide again in favor of that policy and have the example followed by some of our other American cities now feeling their life choked off by inadequate traction lines and other means of getting about.

This is the same spirit with which Chicago faced the devastation of its great fire, and raised the whole level of its business section later at enormous cost and trouble. Possibly, while it is in this Herculean mood, it will go ahead and provide a new, modern, inoffensive system of sewage disposal, instead of drawing off the waters of the Great Lakes to carry it refuse to the Mississippi in an open sewer.

Water and Reapportionment

Riverside Press.

Los Angeles has run into new trouble on the reapportionment issue and that has to do with the ambitions of that city for more water. This time it is Ventura county that is aggrieved, and it is a Los Angeles man who tells about it—Otheman Stevens, legislative correspondent of the Los Angeles Examiner. In a dispatch to that paper he says:

Here's a mixup that has complicated the hope of Los Angeles securing anything in the way of legislation that we want, and seems to indicate a possibility of a similar imbroglio to that prevailing in Inyo county, being developed in Ventura.

The correspondent today innocently asked Assemblyman Walter Duval of Saticoy something about reapportionment.

Wow! Mr. Duval retorted with a stormy statement about the Los Angeles water bureau officials having raided the water supply of Ventura and the organization in that county of an association representing 40,000 acres to repel boarders and to turn off the hydrant.

Mr. Duval says that the water bureau officials asked the state division of water rights for a permit to construct a dam in San Francisco canyon, and without waiting for a hearing date to be set or for the permit went ahead and built the dam from the bedrock to the surface.

That the dam will take a big proportion of water needed by Ventura farmers from the watershed that serves that county, and will transfer the water to the use of Los Angeles. Therefore Ventura landowners have secured a force of lawyers and engineers to fight the predaceous city and that any talk now of favoring the legislative interests of Los Angeles is futile.

Up here nothing seems to be known of the purpose of this exploitation of San Francisco canyon, which by the way is where the first gold was found in California.

But it is all water on our wheel anyway for we are not going to get our reapportionment nor anything else we want from this legislature. Our delegation is afflicted with too quick perception of its being licked.

This makes interesting reading for Riverside county people who have had their experiences with Los Angeles on various matters; and one infers that the outlook for any action on reapportionment is somewhat remote. If nothing is done at this session, it is probably "good night" until after the census of 1930. It will be 1927 when the legislature meets again; and that is so near the census date that any action is unlikely.

A Call to Sandlots

Stockton Independent.

To restore the national game of baseball to 30,000,000 American boys on the sand lots of every village and town in this country is the movement sponsored by the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Finding through a recently conducted survey that the number of boys who played baseball in 1924 was less by 50 per cent than those who had graced the amateur diamonds in 1923, the National A. A. F. realizes that the time is at hand to make a concerted effort to restore America's own game of baseball to its pristine glory in the days when no youngster's education was complete unless he himself played the game—to be a spectator or onlooker was reserved only to those who through physical disability were deprived the joy of participating in the sport.

Football, basketball, golf and tennis, all largely games indulged in by the amateurs, are held responsible for the large falling off in the number of youngsters who indulge in baseball. According to Major John L. Griffith, executive and vice-president of the athletic federation, baseball has declined in the small towns because every boy expects to be paid to play baseball, though golf and tennis are played for fun. Then, too, there has been a lack of community interest in baseball in many of the small towns, the responsible element of the towns holding aloof and allowing the wrong sort of management to foster evils and abuses that have hurt the game.

While the game has fallen off with marked rapidity among the youngsters in the small towns and villages, in high schools and colleges, baseball is an important amateur sport and of course, as is well known, the sport is thriving in the major leagues where the highest professional skill is employed.

In its effort to stage a "come-back" of the national pastime to Young America, the National Amateurs as well as moral aid to the movement. Evancial as well as moral aid to the movement. Everybody who treasures the memories of those halcyon days of real sport on the neighborhood sand lots when everybody's kids joined in the democratic, healthful recreation of baseball will heartily approve the plan to bring back to American youngsters today the real, unadulterated, good old-fashioned game of village and small town neighborhood baseball.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

A REDUCING DIET

A satisfactory reducing diet must furnish enough of the rebuilding food (proteins) for daily bodily use in tissue building. But since its caloric value is well below the average daily amount demanded by the body, from 2500 to 3500 calories daily, the deficiency must be supplied from the fat stored up in your body. This, of course, causes loss of weight.

Gradual reduction, calling for a weight decrease of from one to two pounds each week, is the objective sought. Gradually modify your diet. Take light exercise at first but gradually increase. Make up your mind to give up your favorite snack. You are in for reducing and one year should show good results.

A balanced diet must be maintained if the greatest good is to be accomplished. The fats are to be avoided, but protein or body building food, starch, sugar and mineral salts must be carefully balanced.

Here is a good beginning diet for daily use:

Breakfast—Small portion of fruit. Two eggs or a small portion of any lean meat. One cup of coffee, without sugar and small amount of milk; do not use cream.

Lunch—Clear soup; no rice or noodles. Two slices of bread or small amount of toast or rolls; no butter. Green vegetables of any kind; small portion. Small portion of lean meat. Cup of tea or water.

Dinner—One cup of clear soup. One slice of bread, small pat of butter. Non-fat meat, one small piece.

One potato or small portion of carrots or beets. Small cup of tea; no sugar.

Try this diet for a month, with very little variation. Always drink a fair amount of water, at least one pint during the day. Walking is the best exercise to start with your reducing.

This program will be extended in a later article.

Quite a Heritage

California's Strides

Long Beach Press-Telegram.

California is either fifth or sixth state in the Union as rated by population. The Census Bureau places the State sixth in the list. If California's claims are correct, the claims based upon school enrollment and other dependable factors of calculation, California has displaced Michigan for fifth position. According to census estimates Michigan has in 1925, 4,154,000 population, while California is accredited with 4,021,000. The State school authorities place the California population at 4,500,000, a gain of a little more than 1,000,000 since the census was taken in 1920.

Census computations when made between the actual enumerations are admittedly unreliable. This was shown in replies from the Census Bureau to inquiries from the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce when the census figures were questioned by local authorities. The Chief of the Bureau said that his figures were based not upon actual conditions in the community but upon the growth which Long Beach had made during earlier years. This, of course, cannot give exact results.

If the State School Board is correct, California's population now is exceeded only by the State of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Texas. If it maintains its present rate of growth for another decade it will pass Texas and will be crowding Illinois for third position. California is a great state is more than one particular. In size, population, wealth of resources and variety of products, it stands conspicuous in the galaxy of American unions.

Worth While Verse

SINCE ROMP AROUND HAS GONE

When will the cherries bloom again,
Or the red, red roses blow,
Or the butterflies ride April winds
Again, I want to know?
For hasn't little Romp Around,
Who taught them how to play
And dance above the summer lawn,
Grown up and gone away?

I found an old shoe by the path
Down to the garden plot,
Where he had thrown it long ago,
And lost it, like as not,
His little playtime shoe, it was,
That voyaged the realms of fun,
And now he's thrown the thing aside—
His playtime time is done.

His feet don't fit such little shoes,
The stick he used to ride
Is now too small, his little toys
Have all been thrown aside.
How can the red, red roses blow,
Or trees put blossoms on,
Since he who taught them how to play
Is grown up now, and gone?

—Jay B. Iden.

"Pop says it's crooked."

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Page

We was eating supper, being stake under onions, and all of a sudden I saw a pin on the floor, thinking, G, good luck.

And I started to reetch down to pick it up and I lost my ballants and fell off my chair and I grabbed hold of the table cloth to keep from falling too hard, and pop and ma and my sister Gladis all made noises when they saw their plates moving, and I got up on my chair again without the pin, and pop sed, Well wat the dooce do you call that, wat in the name of all thata crazy do you mean by a trick like that?

I saw a pin, I sed.

You'd haff to see a snake at the very lest to icuse conduct like that, pop sed.

It was only by a miracle that I kept my plate out of my lap, ma sed.

Ware do you think you are, at a circus? Gladis sed.

And we kept on eating, and I thawt I mite as well put some more salt on my diffrent things, which I started to, and I dropped the salt celler and spilled some salt on the table, thinking, G, thata bad luck if I dont throw some over my left shoulder.

Wich I hurry up started to do, and my elbow hit pops hand just when he was reetching for a slice of bred, and the slice of bred flew up in the air and came down in the stewed tomatoes.

Yee good, pop sed.

Is this a dinner table or a reselling match? ma sed, and Gladis, sed, That boy needs a strake jacket, he's going out of his mind.

Well G wizz, I had to throw salt over my left shoulder, didnt I? I sed, and pop sed, If you dont want to leave the room before the dizzert is brawt on, you will abandon all further superstition during the remainder of the meal.

Wich I did.

POEM

TRAVEL along on the lilt of a song and you'll find you let cheerful-ness in. Constantly singing is constantly bringing the spirit that's achin' to win.

Life, when you cheer it with humming-songsy spirit, has solemnness beat by a mile. Strumming and humming just mean that you're coming to know the full value of smile.

I've got a notion that melody motion of lips puts a stop to the smirk. Whistle a tune and you'll find, very soon, that it helps you to plug through your work.

Music is magic, like grumbling is tragic, and music was meant for us all. Life bids you treat her to harmony sweeter. Say, why don't you answer the call?

What does it matter which tune or which patter you choose, if you'll just harmonize? Sing forth, dog-gone it. Come on now, step on it. 'Twill send spirit up to the skies.

To Reshape School Training

Kansas City Times

How teaching methods and subject matter are to be readjusted and shaped to meet more effectively the needs of today is perhaps the most important question now confronting the educational world. The subject was given special prominence at the meeting of the National Education Association at Cincinnati last week.

It was the opinion of educators there that almost the entire school curriculum now in use would have to be revised. It was held that the curriculum at present includes too great a variety of subjects, and that it is not designed to give boys and girls of today the kind of training that will prepare them to cope with social, economic and other conditions.

The present school curriculum is largely a matter of tradition. It has grown out of an older order and has been changed slowly, except in some of the large cities where certain innovations have been made.

The need now being recognized is a general readjustment in line with present day conditions. The assurance is given that this adjustment, plans for which already are taking form, will be made in a thoroughly scientific manner, just as medical instruction has been revised and adapted to new conditions and industry reorganized on a modern basis.

The idea is that teaching should be so directed as to be of practical benefit to the pupil. It is suggested that in the teaching of arithmetic, for example, less attention may be given to the cube root and apothecary weight, and more to instruction on methods of saving and investing money or the keeping of a household expense account.

There is recognition, too, of demands for more school emphasis on citizenship duties, social responsibilities and character training. There is the call for increased attention to the individual child, and for less use of group methods of training. Such use as is made in Kansas City of the open air schools for certain pupils, of special training for backward or unusually alert groups, is recognized as a general need.

The school program of the future, as it is now being conceived, will have less to do with getting knowledge into the child's head and more to do with fitting the child for the life it is to enter. It is felt that the schools have a much larger responsibility than in the past because other institutions, the home and the church, apparently do not occupy the position of influence with youth they once did.

There is promise in this new view of the school situation. It involves a high conception of duty and an apparent readiness to perform that duty.

Good Among Men

Read Lk. 7:11-17. Text: 7:16. God hath visited his people.

MEDITATION—God has given us much both within our own inner lives and in the world about us to remind us of himself. There are deep in all men "intimations of immortality" and a reaching out for kinship with the Great Spirit that rules the Universe. We know he is by the testimony of our own souls. In the world about us how often are we reminded of him. Earth with its thousand voices praises God; the height of mountains calls the soul to reach upward; the broad sweep of the sea invites the soul to widen its horizon and to these voices of nature our spirit responds. Jesus came revealing the God of our own souls and of the universe as a Father, infinite in love and mercy. God was in Christ renewing and comforting the souls of men. In Christ, God visited his people in a new way that we might have a saving knowledge of our Father in heaven.

PRAYER—Eternal God, we are ever thankful that thou didst reveal thyself in Jesus Christ. We would always think of thee and love thee as the Father Eternal. Let us walk with sure and kindly fellowship with thee and all thy children. Amen.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 3—JACK FROST HEARS A LECTURE

"My! My!" said the March Hare as he galloped along with the Twins on his back. "I'd no idea that things were so backward. It's all Jack Frost's fault. I'll have to find him."

"What is Jack Frost's fault?" asked Nick.

"That spring hasn't got a better start," answered the hare. "Why, look! Scarcely a bit of green showing anywhere. No pussy-willows and not a clover leaf, or a bit of water cress, or a speck of hepatica, the little star flowers that come up first."

He talked as fast as he ran, the March Hare did, and the Twins began to wonder if he really knew where he was going.

He kept muttering, "Yes, sir, he's been here. Yes, sir, he's been here, too! And here and here and here." Every time he saw a tiny spot of snow behind a stone he would say, "Here, and here and here."

"What are you looking for and what are you muttering about?" asked Nancy.

"Jack Frost! Jack Frost!" said the March Hare. "Didn't I tell you? Those are his footprints, all that white stuff is where he's been trying to dodge behind stones. Every where he steps he leaves snow and ice tracks. There! Look at that! He's been around here very recently. Very recently, indeed! I may run across him any minute."

Aha! What did I tell you? Look behind that tree. There's his nose sticking out."

The March Hare stopped and pointed with his ears toward a large oak, and the children could see a long white sharp thing sticking out behind it that did certainly look like a nose.

"Are you there?" called the March Hare.

No answer.

"You aren't fooling me a bit," said the hare crossly. "I can see you or enough of you to know who you are, Jack Frost. But although I can only see your nose, your ears can't be far away and I'm going to give you a piece of my mind."

Still no answer, but the hare went right on, wiggling his nose excitedly.

"You may as well get out of here," he said. "You don't belong here at this time of year at all. You belong in Bluster Gust Land up in the sky along with the other nuisance fairies and you'd better be packing your trunk. Are you listening?"

The nose never moved, so there is no doubt that Jack Frost heard everything the mad March Hare said.

"People want to get their houses cleaned and they can't do a thing with you snooping around. If they should take their parlor curtains down and wash their windows, how do they know that you aren't going to come around and paint them all up again with white fuzzy ferns. And look at the willow fairies! They can't tie their willow buds onto the branches for shivering. And look at the green things trying to come up out of the ground! The minute the little ground fairies push them up from below, you stamp on them and they go back. Get out, Jack Frost!" cried the mad March Hare rushing behind the tree with all his might.

But nobody was there.

"He's gone! I've scared him," cried the hare delightedly. "Now perhaps spring will have a chance."

He didn't seem to notice, as the Twins did, that the long sharp thing was still there—a tiny dead branch with the bark off.
